THIS MONTH'S COVER

March 3rd is Japanese Girl's Day - a celebration for Japanese girls called Hina-Matsuri, a custom which began in the Heian period. Families displayed a set of hina dolls and props in the house to wish girls healthy growth and happiness. Hina dolls are dressed in Japanese ancient costumes and are displayed on the shelves of a stand covered with a bright red cloth from the end of February to 3 March. The Camp Zama Library, which owns the large and colorful set shown on our March Bugle cover, has put up the hina dolls as a cultural display. Left to right: Mikako Matsuzawa and Eiko Kato, librarians, are setting the last of the hina dolls in order on the stand.

SUPER BOWL PARTY

KLV

Special Guest: "Miami Dolphins" Cheerleaders

RTV

It was the place to be!!!

Although Camp Zama's Super Bowl Party did not begin until 7 am, fans were at the community club entrance as early as 5 am to get a choice seat that ensured a good view of the game and an equally good view of the cheerleaders.

Festivities began at 7 am with an outstanding breakfast buffet, and as the line grew longer and longer the line at the entrance grew equally as long. At kickoff, the ballroom and Firelite Lounge (overflow area) were packed with over 600 excited fans, many showing support for both the "Steelers" and "Packers", but also others who showed their loyalty by wearing an NFL jersey bearing the name of their favorite team.

There were two major attractions at this special sporting event. First, fans had an opportunity to win one of 15 major prizes ranging from blackberrys to digital cameras to sports merchandise with the "big" prize of two roundtrip tickets to Hawaii courtesy of United Airlines. Two special drawings were held for "military personnel only" to determine the "Queen" and "King" of the quarter. Each winner got to sit with the cheerleaders for a quarter and each also received five prizes.

Secondly, the main attraction and major focus were the "Dolphins" who got the big crowd into a festive mood at 8 am with personal introductions followed by a spirited, high energy dance. From the early morning hours until the game clock showed nothing but zeros, the cheerleaders proved to be perfect NFL ambassadors by unselfishly posing for countless photos and signing hundreds of posters. The Party was SUPER, but the cheerleaders were SUPER TOO!!! And, for us who are far from home, thanks for the great memories.....
